The Class Assembly of XI B was held on 16 July, 2026 on the topic, "How School Fosters Human Excellence Through Compassion – Three Ways".

The programme commenced with Tamizh Thaai Vazhthu followed by the DAV Gaan and chanting of divine Gayatri Mantra.

The highlight of the assembly was its unique courtroom-themed presentation. The central question posed was, "Does compassion still exist?" The students engaged the audience through a thought-provoking courtroom debate, presenting arguments both for and against the moral theme. Sakshi portrayed the Defence Lawyer, while T R Khavish Adhithia took on the role of the Prosecutor. M Navaneethan and Anagha R served as the Judges. Compassion was personified as a human being and presented before the court. The case was introduced by E Kandhavel and the audience was warmly welcomed by Kaluru Sruti.

The Defence Lawyer presented the first evidence, "The Compassion Quotient", through an engaging game-show-style presentation that explored diverse perspectives and highlighted the role of the School in nurturing compassion and empathy among students.

The second evidence, "Timeless Tempo – Compassion Expressed Through Movement and Art", was presented through a graceful dance enactment that beautifully conveyed the values of empathy, support and kindness through movement and artistic expression.

The Prosecution presented "Moral Kombat – The Battle Between Compassion and Indifference", portraying a situation involving unkind behaviour and the indifference of bystanders. The presentation highlighted the importance of recognising inappropriate actions, taking responsibility and choosing empathy over indifference. The guidance provided during the situation encouraged the students to reflect on their actions, acknowledge their mistakes and embrace compassion.

The final deliberation, "Forum Veritas – The Courtroom's Final Deliberation", affirmed that compassion remains an integral part of human values. The presentation effectively established that the situations portrayed reflected the values nurtured within the DAV community.

The assembly concluded with the Vote of Thanks proposed by Thooyavan and Jacinth Jerusha, followed by the Shanti Paat and the National Anthem.

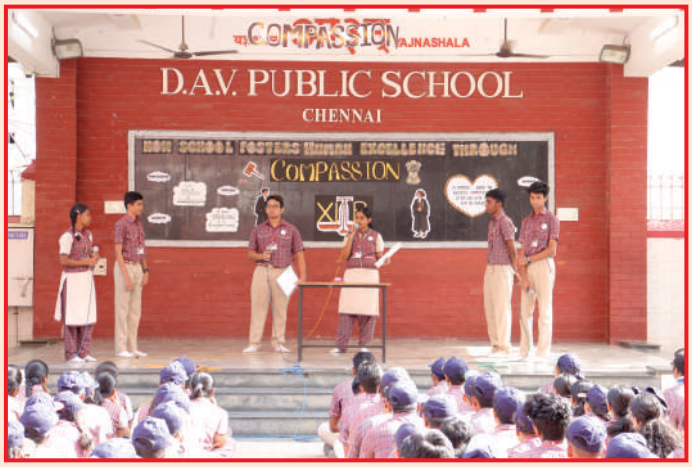

The stage backdrop and invitation featured meaningful artworks created by the students. Each artwork symbolised different aspects of Compassion and Human Excellence.

The Supervisory Head shared her valuable insights and appreciation for the presentation. Parents appreciated the students' teamwork, creativity and coordinated efforts. A few alumni also graced the occasion with their presence and shared inspiring words with the students.

The assembly conveyed the powerful message that compassion is not merely an emotion but a conscious choice that strengthens human relationships and contributes to building a humane and responsible society.
